GOSSIP OF THE RACETRACE

BALLOT PICKED TO WIN TO-DAY'S SUBURBAN HANDICAP.

Price Makers Figure Him the Best of a Excellent Field-No Arrests at Graves end Yesterday-J. E. Madden Says That He Is Willing to Race for $200 Purses.

For the second time since its inauguration in 1884 the $25,000 Suburban Handleap, one ile and a quarter, will be run at Sheepshead Bay this afternoon without public betting. When Pontiac won in 1885 there was practically no speculation on the big race, yet a large crowd was in attendance. To-day's field is so attractive that in spite of the turf's embarrassing predicament just now it is ex-pected that many thousands of enthusiasts will turn out if only to show their loyalty to the sport of kings in its hour of need. It was said last night that the Police Department and the Pinkertons would enforce the new betting law with as much strictness as prevailed at Gravesend, but apparently there s nothing to prevent private wagers among friends. The Coney Island Jockey Club will have to put up about $16,000 to guarantee the full cash value of to-day's race, as the subscription and starting fees, also the forfeits will amount to about $0,000.

The regular rates of admission to the track. which has been reconstructed at an outlay of nearly $200,000, will prevail, and if as many as 20,000 persons should turn out the Coney Island Jockey Club would possibly break even on the day. Professional bookmakers will do no business, so that the betting ring will be kept empty by the authorities.

If James R. Keene's Ballot, with 127 pounds, does not win to-day there will be great disappointment. In prices quoted last night by several expert layers who were requested to give an estimate of odds that could be laid against Ballot about 2 to 1 was the average. Sallot is in magnificent condition and Trainer Rowethinks he will gallop home. On Wednesday morning the Keene horse worked a mile and a quarter at the Bay in 2:06 3-5. He ran the first five furlongs in 0:59 3-5, the three-quarters in 1:13 and the mile in 1:39 4-5. At no period was he let down and his performance was so impressive that a majority of turfmen tabbed him as a sure winner of today's event.

borses were named to go, but at least one, Dorante, will be scratched. Dorante will be reserved for the $20,000 Tidal Stakes to be run to-morrow, in which Colin and Stamina will be the other starters. On form it looks as if Ballot's most dangerous rivals would be August Belmont's Fair Play, J. L. McGinnis's Frank Gill, F. B. Hitchcock's Dandelion and J. E. Madden's King James, all of whom were contenders in last night's prices. The Suburban will be run at 4 o'clock. The entries weights and probable jockeys are as follows

There were no new developments in the situation at Gravesend ye sterday. growd was larger than on Wednesday, close to 6,000 persons being present. There were 200 policemen on hand, supervised by Deputy Commissioner Baker and Borough Inspector Plood, but no arrests were made. The Pink-ertons notified all of the professional layers again that if any one accepted a wager he would be permanently barred from the track It was said that the racetrack attorneys were still gathering material for the test cases to be tried in the near future, but nobody in authority would talk for publication. veral men entered the betting ring after the third race and when ordered by the police to "move on" refused point blank. were allowed to remain unmolested and the rumor soon spread that this move was premeditated and was part of the material to be used in the courts.

The Pinkertons again requested the newsreporters to refrain from publishing odds, on the ground that there was no betting except of a private nature and that no prices were displayed by professional layers. The man who usually secures the "official prices" for a local turf paper was notified that he must cut it all out, so that no public report of the betting was made inside of the track. But the newspapers will publish to-day what are called "handicappers' prices," which are imply an estimate of what the quotations should be in the event of the carrying on of John E. Madden, one of the biggest breed-ers of thoroughbreds in America, not only signed an agreement to allow the Brighton Beach Racing Association to reduce the value of its stakes or cancel them altogether, but also sent a letter to C. J. Fitzgerald to the effect that he was willing to race his horses for purses valued at $200, if necessary. Madden wrote that he had forty-five horses in training and would do his best to have one if not two starters in as many of these races at the Beach as possible. Among the additional horsemen and breeders who have agreed to release the Brighton management W. E. Phillips, J. H. Madigan, W. H. DuBois, C. H. Smith, E. W. Laggeroth, H. S. Page, E. B. Purcell, R. K. Cassatt, F. E. Brown, F. J. Nolan, F. J. Lantry and others. The sportsmanship of Madden was generally commended when it was considered that he might have won a majority of the rich two-year-old stakes at the Beach.

The crowd had all kinds of fun during the steeplechase. After Banner had thrown her rider she went on with her field, taking some of the jumps and running around others She finally cut across lots and got to the opening in the rails just in time to breeze home in front of the winner. Stellarland threw Boadwee at the paddock jump, but the jockey hung on to the reins and remounted. He was thrown again later on and Stellaland remained motionless on the ground, apparently dead, until a stable boy shook him up. Then the gelding proceeded to the barn as if he had enjoyed his rest on the soft turf. Bill Daly showed how hard the times are just now by starting Tennis and Grace Cameron in the last race. But he got nothing but a hoarse laugh from his neighbors in the grand stand.

Field Mouse in Stake at Gravesend. James R. Keene's fleet Disguise filly Meliaande, a strong first choice, was easily victori-ous in the Castleton Stakes, for two-year-old fillies, five furlongs, at Gravesend yesterday. She was in receipt of four pounds from August Belmont's Field Mouse, and breaking away rom the barrier in front she led from o finish, winning by two lengths in 1:00. Field Mouse, second in favor, had five lengths over J. E. Madden's Lady Hubbard, who took third place by a head from the Newcastle Stable's Counterpane, who was left at the Roseben had no chance to show what he could do in the handicap for all ages, at about six furlongs, carrying 142 pounds. He was caught in the barrier at the start and was also nterfered with by the crazy acting Frank Lord, so that the Big Train was lengths behind he leaders at the end of the first quarter of mile. Rialto made most of the running in this event and galloped home two lengths in front of Pantoufle, with Bat Masterson a length back. Colloquy had early speed but quit. The time was 1:09 1-5.

J. H. Madigan's Simcoe made all the pace in the opening event, for two-year-olds, five and a half furlongs, and beat the Newcastle Stable's Preceptor in a drive in 1:07 3-5.

T. Hitchcock, Jr.'s, California King had on trouble in carrying off the honors in the steeplechase, Mark Gumberts and King Castle cutting up the rest of the purse.

J. J. Hyland's Pontoon, 15 to 1, showed the way in the fifth event and beat Frizette rather easily, while J. L. McGinnis's Wild Refrain graduated from the maiden elass in the last event at a mile and a furiong. The summaries:

The Double Event is next to the Suburban in importance on to-day's card for Sheeps-head Bay. Madden holds a strong hand with Fayette and Sir Martin, while Bobbin may make a good bid. In the first race, at six and a half furlongs, Jack Atkin, Baby Wolf and Peter Quince should go well.

Alfred Noble has a good chance in the second race, a handicap at one mile, with second race, a handcap at the mile, with Royal Tourist and Rosimiro formidable. In the Grass Selling, on the turf, at one mile and a sixteenth, McCarter, Rye and Don Enrique have chances. The sixth race is for two-year-olds, with Edward, Moorish King and Patsy figuring well. The Zuhrah is owned by Henry Doscher of the New Rochelle Yacht Club, who reof the New Rochelle Yacht Club, who reported that she had encountered heavy northeast winds while in the Gulf Stream. The Esperanza finished at 8.05 o'clock, so that the Zuhrah beat her 2 hours 48 minutes actual time and 48 minutes [corrected time. The Esperanza experinced heavy weather in the Gulf Stream, but the rest of the voyage was very pleasant. The Zuhrah was towed into the Erie Basin fand the Esperanza anchored off the Atlantic Yacht Club at Sea Gate. She is to proceed to Newport to-day.

FLUKY RACE ON THE SOUND. Sixty-first Annual Regatta of the New York Yacht Club Marred by Calms and Poor

Judgment, Finishes First, but Allows The Avenger, owned by Robert W. Emmons 2d of Boston, won her class race in the annual regatta of the New York Yacht Club yesterlay, defeating the Aurora, owned by Com modore Cornelius Vanderbilt, by 29 seconds and the Istalena by 13 minutes 15 seconds. The Avenger also won the Bennett cup for loops. Commodore Vanderbilt's Aurora won he race for the one design 57 footers, beating he Istalena by 13 minutes 10 seconds It was a most tantalizing day. The wind was from every point of the compass, and it was only on the last leg of the course that held at all true, and then it came ahead so that the racers had to beat home. After naving sailed far apart and in all sorts of wind the three 57 footers were very close together at the second mark, and when the wind freshened practically made a new start. This leg was nine and one-half miles long, and the Aurora gradually drew away from the other two and almost succeeded in getting en minutes ahead of the Avenger, which was the time she had to allow over the ful was the time she had to allow over the full course of twenty and one-half miles, so that while the Aurora was beaten, she had shown up well, particularly when close hauled in a light sailing breeze.

The members of the New York Yacht Club are wondering what hoodoo is spoiling their races. Last week the races for the Spring cup could not be sailed, and yesterday the weather was such that the yachtsmen were tired out when they finished. One wind blew on one side of the Sound and another on the other and in between these two was a calm. Then these winds would shift suddenly and a yacht after having cleverly worked into a leading position would by the change be put last.

Sellors, have a superstition against sky

yacht after having cleverly worked into a leading position would by the change be put last.

Sailors have a superstition against sky pilots and think that all sorts of ill luck will come if one is on board. One vessel that took part in the race had four on board, and the Eclipse was blamed for all that has happened. Capt. Callangn wanted a race, but he had no competitor. He sailed around the course, but could not reach the finishing line before the time limit was up.

When the regatta committee, H. de B. Parsons, Ernest E. Lorillard, Walter C. Kerr and James D. Sparkman, went out to the starting line off Prospect Point early in the morning there was every prospect of there being a nice sailing wind for the regatta. The course was first to the Scotch Caps buoy, 3 miles north ½ west, then to a mark off Woolsey's Reef, 8 miles northeast by east ½ east, and then 9½ miles southwest ½ south to the finish.

This meant that the first leg would be a run, and balloon jibtopsails were sent up in stops and all ware ready to be started. This meant that the first leg would be a run, and balloon jibtopsails were sent up in stops and all were ready to be started. L. J. Callanan's Eclipse was the first off. She crossed the line on the port tack and broke out a balloon jibtopsail and set a small main topmast staysail. Later she set a spinnaker

o port. The 58 footers were next. The Aurora and topmast staysail. Later she set a spinnaker to port.

The 58 footers were next. The Aurora and Istalena were in one class and these two and the Avenger in the regular class. Commodore Vanderbilt had the wheel on the Aurora and with him were T. A. Keck and W. Butler Duncan, Jr., G. M. Pynchon had the tiller on the Istalena and Robert W. Emmons sailed the Avenger and had with him Daniel Bacon. Just before the signal sounded the Aurora reached down the line from the committee boat end and was dangerously near being over too soon. She gybed at the eastern end and started ten seconds after the gun, but the gybe had killed her way.

The Istalena came down with good headway and crossed 25 seconds after the signal. Both broke out balloons and took in small headsails and the Istalena soon went by the Aurora. The Avenger started 3 minutes 25 seconds after the signal and followed the others. The Aurora held to the east of the course, the Istalena to the west and the Avenger between the two.

The handicap class came next. Mimosa III. with Stuyvesant Wainwright at the wheel, started at 1:40:18, Simitar at 1:40:21 Dorwina at 1:40:30 and Miladi at 1:41:21. Then came the New York Yacht Club 30 footers, seven of them. Harry L. Maxwell, sailing the Phryne, with her owner, J. Rogers Maxwell, on board, chose the eastern end of the line and crossed almost with the signal. By the time these boats started the leaders had run out of the southerly wind and had found a soft spot beyond which the wind was coming north. Light sails were taken in and it became a beat to the first mark and a slow one too. Those that had taken the easterly course had shown the best judgment, as results showed, and the Aurora was leading in her class and Alera, Mimosa and Phryne in theirs, while the others were scattered. At the Scotch Caps buoy the times taken were: Aurora, 2:27:35; Mimosa III. 2:37:42; Phryne, 2:39:40; Miladi, 2:43:12; Dorwina, 2:46:38; Simitar, 2:48:10; Atair, 2:49:00.

All made a short hitch and then the Istalne, stood across the Sound to 2:44:42: Nepsi, 2:45:38; Simitar, 2:48:10; Atair, 2:40:00.

All made a short hitch and then the Istalnea stood across the Sound to get into a southerly breeze that was sending coasting schooners along at a fair rate, but between the two winds was a long soft spot. The Aurora kept her weather position as long as she could, but the Avenger seemed to catch all the light airs and gradually drifted into the westerly position of all.

The wind was very baffing. At one time the yachts would be close hauled and then a little later all would be carrying light sails. Time after time they gybed and so slowly but surely worked on toward the mark off Woolsey's Reef and before reaching there found a light wind from the north. The times taken at that mark were Aurora, 5:28:30; Istalena, 5:27:18; Avenger, 5:29:14; Dorwina, 5:34:40; Miladi, 5:35:58; Eclipse, 5:38:23; Nepsi, 5:38:23; Alera, 5:38:12; Hera II., 5:43:00; Dahinda, 5:43:55; Simitar, 5:44:30, and then came the bis and Atair.

Again the wind shifted, this time more to the east, and they started for home with booms to starboard and carrying balloons. The tide was running west and they made slow progress. The Avenger made a clever turn and at once took the lead from the Istalena, but when that yacht had got her sail drawing she soon moved into second place again.

Then a good sailing breeze struck across drawing she soon moved into second place again.

Then a good sailing breeze struck across the Sound for the Long Island shore and Commodore Vanderbilt held the Aurora to windward of the others in order to catch it first. Mr. Pynchon kept his yacht sailing so that her sails drew as well as possible under the conditions, but this kept her well in the middle of the Sound and when the new wind struck the Aurora the Istalena was badly left.

The Avenger got this breeze about the time

dle of the Sound and when the new wind struck the Aurora the Istalena was badly left.

The Avenger got this breeze about the time that the Aurora did and both took in balloon jib topsalls and sent up small jib topsalls. This wind made it a reach home, and as it freshened the vachts sailed faster than they had all day. The Aurora gradually dropped the Avenger, and it was interesting to watch her as she sailed, and all hands figured on whether she could get far enough ahead to save the allowance of 10 minutes 3 seconds.

Two short tacks had to be made to fetch the finishing line, and the Aurora crossed at 7:11:08. The Avenger finished at 7:23:51, and as she had started 3 minutes 15 seconds after the Aurora the Avenger won the race by the small margin of 29 seconds. The avenger beat the Istalena boat for boat.

When these yachts finished the others were far astern and the wind was fast getting lighter and lighter. The time limit on the race was half an hour after sunset, which made it 3 minutes after 8 o'clock, but in the race for the Bennett cup the 30 footers got an allowance of 51 minutes from the 57 footers. They had started 15 minutes after those yachts, so that they had until about a quarter after 8 o'clock to get in.

The Dahinda was the only yacht that reached the finish line after the 57 footers. She finished at 8:16:24, and her time figured in the Bennett cup face as her finish in the class race was long after the time had expired. She, was beaten by the Avenger for that trophy 18 seconds. She beat the Aurora by 11 seconds.

H. B. Wood Leads in Qualifying Roun at Briarcliff. Golfers of the Hudson River towns from the mountains of the Catakilis to Sleepy Hollow were at the Briarcliff Golf Club yes terday for their seventh annual champion-ship tournament. Richard Deming, first president of the league, returned to golf for the occasion and holed a mashie shot for 4 on the home hole. Gilman P. Tiffany, winner of the title for the last four years, did not lead in the qualifying round to the down fall of the sure thing bettors. Gilman needed an 86 and blamed the high total on misplaced bunkers on the second, fourth and ninth holes. In each case the traps are within reach of a long driver, yet there is no exemption from punishment when one get into them. Tiffany, who vowed he would do 74 at match play, made this score:

The medal for low score and an extra cup presented by a member were won by H. B. Wood, from the Columbia Country Club, at Hudson. He has a delightful style to watch and has played on Scottish links. Aided by a 2 on the fifth, where he drove the green and ran down an eight foot put. Wood made the first round in 38. If a few puts that had come off on the first round had been as lucky on the second Wood might have broken all records for the course. Yet Wood's winning card was good enough, for it read:

Alexander and Hackett Win in Doubles After Hard Fight-Amakassin Results. Another notch for a lost set came near to being carved on the record of the national doubles champions, Frederick B. Alexander and Harold H. Hackett, yesterday on the turf courts of the Crescent Athletic Club at Bay Martin, the Crescent's titular pair, were twice within a stroke of taking a set yesterday before Alexander by his superior overhead playing made the score 6-3, 6-3, 7-5. Raymond D. Little and Edgar W. Leonard. They were too tired to make anything like an attack in this match, with the result that Little and Leonard won at 6—0, 6—2, 6—4.

The rearrangement of the schedule had so placed matches that Little and Leonard then faced Irving C. Wright and Edwin P. Larned across the net. This brought about a fine competition, for Little and Leonard had just warmed to their work in the previous contest, and they made a pretty pace against the younger pair. Little and Leonard managed to win at 6—4, 5—7, 7—5 and 6—4.

England's woman lawn tennis expert, Miss Clare Cassell, who has been playing in this country for some moonths, won her place in the semi-final of the Amackassin Club tournament, Yohkers, yesterday in good style. She played against Mrs. Harry H. Burdick, who was beaten 6—1, 6—4.

A clash between the New Yorks and the Cubs is always an event in baseball, and there was a stiff battle between them yesterday, which the Cubs won. Three first division teams won. The Pittsburgs defeated the Brooklyns, but had to go some to do it, and the Cincinnatis made one run sunce to whip the Philadelphias. The Bostons smeared the St. Louis team. The day's scoring on the whole was heavier than usual. The results: Chicago, 7; New York, 5.

for his case was simply one of a pitcher going up in the air. Two New York pitchers, Wiltse and Taylor, were numbered among the debris, not because they took an ascension but because they were ineffective. Wiltse was batted out of the box in the third inning and Reulbach suddenly lost all control in the same inning and was put on the The Chicagos got a winning lead while hey were playing the tattoo on Wiltse's curves in the fourth. To put it more accurately, the runs they made in that period enabled them to keep in the lead all the time and and the game. The New Yorks went after them hard and kept after them, but the Chicages hadn't stopped scoring. Every little it added to what they had made just a little hit more, and they kept just far enough ahead of the New Yorks to resist all attempts of the home players to range alongside. It was a bubbling, bristling, boiling, soulful scrap.

Malarkey pitched exceedingly well for the New Yorks after he ascended the rostrum in the sixth inning, and the eternal question arose whether the New Yorks wouldn't have won if he had been in from the first. As it was, the locals came near winning by upthe pernicious activity of three conscienceless Cubs, Schulte, Tinker and Evers, this because of their fielding. As an outfielder Schulte was perfectly wretched. In addition he was perfectly horrid to our side. He didn't do a thing but rob Seymour and Donlin of hits by great catches, and he had the brazen effrontery to swoop down from afar on a base hit, hurl the ball to the plate on a on a base hit, hurl the ball to the plate on a bee line and throttle a runner there.

Tinker started the scoring carouse in the third. He singled to centre. Reulbach walked. Evers hit safely and scored Tinker. Hofman made the second out with a sacrifice fly that scored Reulbach. Schulte singled and he and Evers started a double steal. Bresnahan threw well to third, but Devlin muffed squarely. That error made a big difference, for Chance cleaned up with a two bagger.

muned squarely. That error made a big difference, for Chance cleaned up with a two bagger.

Reulbach began tugging at the anchor ropes as soon at the New Yorks came to bat in the third. He pitched to Bresnahan four times—all balls. The next two were balls—to Bridwell. Gen. Chance then signalled to the bench for his reinforcements to go out and warm up. Lundgren hiked out behind the stand. Bridwell was passed, and the anxious glances which Chance cast over toward where his new pitcher was warming up were as those of Napoleon looking for Grouchy. There was nothing grouchy about Lundgren, and when two balls had been called on Herzog he deployed on the field. He didn't steady down for several innings, and in this one the passing of Herzog. Tenny's single, Doyle's sacrifice and Seymour's fly to Hofman produced three runs. Schulte spoiled a continuance of the ecoring by pulling down Donlin's furious drive.

Slagle reached third in the fourth on Taylor's wild throw of his bunt. Tinker's fly to Seymour brought him home. Devlin scored for New York in the fourth on Evers's fumble, a base on balls and Bridwell's hit. Four to Evers in the fifth, Hofman's sacrifice and Schulte's hit gave the Cubs a run. The New Yorks made one in the same inning on hits by Seymour and Donlin. With two or bease in the sixth and problem the

on bases in the sixth and nobody out Malarkey went in and prevented the base runners from getting home.

Schulte blanked the New Yorks in the seventh. After Doyle had singled Schulte sprinted in and clinig to Seymour's short fly in some miraculous manner. Doyle took second on an out and when he tried to go the rest of the way on Devlin's hit the insatiable Schulte threw home and got him. Johnny Kling's two bagger fetched Slagje through in the eighth after Slagle had drawn four balls from the Malarkey locker. At the beginning of the last half of the ninth Umpire Klem announced that Taft had been nominated for the Presidency on the first ballot. Hearing which, the Chicagos nominated the New Yorks for defeat by retiring Merkle, Tenney and Doyle in order. The score:

PITTSBURG, 8; BROOKLYN, 6.

There was husky hitting and free scoring at Washington Park yesterday, with the Pittsburgs huskier in the one accomplishment and freer in the other. The scoring was done mostly at the beginning and the end of the battle, the Pirates being able to show something for every rally made by the Brooklyns. They had to, for the home team spurted in the eighth and ninth innings and made a good fight of it. Of the twenty-one hits made, nearly one-half were plucked by three men—Thomas, Wilson and Jordan. Thomas made four singles and the other two three hits aplece. The Pittsburgs did the better inside work. The score:

ST. LOUIS (A. L.), 12; NEW YORK (A. L.), 6 Sr. Louis, Mo., June 18 .- New York opened with the Browns this afternoon, only to meet with continued reverses, St. Louis winning by the topheavy score of 12 to 6. The Hillmen never had a look in after the first four innings. and it was only at the close of the contest that a still wider gap between the teams was closed up. With the score standing 12 to 3 Howell let up in his pitching in the ninth inning, and it was at this point that Griffith's team made it was at this point that Griffith's team made three of its runs on some sequential hitting.

Difference in pitching strength was what decided the contest, though each team used two twirlers. Criss, who started off for St. Louis, lasted but one inning before he was forced to give way to Howell. Howell did fine work. He fielded in fine form himself and got great support. Wallace in particular playing a grand game, while Stone made a brilliant catch and Schweitzer did the same.

For New York Orth started off, but he was replaced by Blake in the second inning with two men on base, two runs over the plate and two out. Niles was overcome by the heat after the fifth inning and had to retire in favor of Moriarty. Hemphill made a double, walked once and scored one run, besides doing well in the field. The score:
